Healdsburg Neighbors Network

Living in Healdsburg just got better. A group of neighbors, spearheaded by Gail Jonas and Nancy Roberts, are creating a neighbors network for those who need some help before or after a medical procedure.

“We’ve seen a need for this kind of help in our town and have decided to provide it on a voluntary basis for members of our community, said Gail Jonas. We believe people heal faster and better when they get to see friendly faces and are made to feel like part of the community.”

To apply for help with rides to and from medical appointments, moving furniture as needed for recovery, grocery and drugstore shopping, meals prepared and delivered, laundry, pet care and communications with family and friends, write to:

When Gail presented the Healdsburg Neighbors Network idea to the City Council recently, the council members were very enthusiastic about it and Fire Chief Steve Adams decided to promote the project to the young fire department volunteers.
